

A turning point

Germany was never part of the plan

- HP placement during BSc
- Good excuse to leave
- Back to UK for thesis
- Job offer from Integral
- Master's while working
- Planned: 2 years → back to UK
- Packed a rucksack and rode to Germany

Industry

Integral - where I really learned development

- SW Developer ~8 years
- Small company, small team
- Built server monitoring tools used worldwide
- Learned a lot, fast
- Real responsibility early
- Learned most of what I know there
- Intense, but valuable
- Long hours + pressure
 - If we didn't deliver, the company didn't earn